Introduction

The Los Angeles County Arts Commission's Civic Art Program provides leadership in the development of high quality civic spaces by integrating the work of artists into the planning, design and construction of Los Angeles County infrastructure and facilities. The Civic Art Program encourages innovative approaches to civic art and provides access to artistic experiences of the highest caliber to residents and visitors of Los Angeles County. The Civic Art Program also provides educational resources and ensures stewardship to foster broad public access to artwork owned by Los Angeles County. The Civic Art Program has developed and maintains all of the inventory and records for County-owned civic artwork.

The Civic Art Program was established by the Board of Supervisors on December 7, 2004 and the first project funding under the policy was initiated in 2006. This document outlines accomplishments of the Civic Art Program for the Fiscal Year 2009-10.

Civic Art Policy Revisions

In December 2009, the Board of Supervisors approved revisions to the Civic Art Policy that further clarified the goals and management of the program. These revisions included the addition of civic art for capital projects managed by the Community Development Commission.

Project Management

During the fiscal year, thirteen new civic art projects were initiated. A total of forty projects were actively managed during the fiscal year. The completion of eleven civic art projects this fiscal year brings the total to thirty-eight civic art projects that have been completed since the program was established.

Projects have been managed in each of the five Supervisorial Districts, and in partnership with the Department of Public Works, the Community Development Commission and thirteen different County departments.

Commissioning Civic Artists

The goal of the Civic Art Program is to commission the highest quality original site-specific artwork for each new project location. For each new commission, the approach to civic art is developed and artists are selected with input from various stakeholders including Board Offices, departments, the Department of Public Works and Community Development Commission, community members and arts professionals.

Through the Civic Art Program, the Los Angeles County Arts Commission works directly with individual visual artists and design professionals. During the current fiscal year, program staff reviewed over 250 artist applications, and served 180 artists through technical assistance workshops and outreach efforts. The number of artists notified regarding Civic Art Program opportunities by email was 5,686.

Eleven artists were commissioned for civic art projects for the first time during the fiscal year. Of those artists, nine, or 82%, live and/or work in Los Angeles County.

Artist Profiles

Los Angeles County is home to one of the greatest concentrations of artists in the nation. The professional skill, expertise and creative vision of individual artists is central to the success of the Civic Art Program. The Civic Art Program provides opportunities for artists to create artwork for County facilities and to engage communities to create distinctive work that serves as community landmarks and establishes a legacy for current and future generations of Los Angeles County residents.

Artists commissioned through the Civic Art Program over the past year include Al Price, Roberto Delgado, Carlos Callejo, José Antonio Aguirre, Kent Twitchell, Claudia Reisenberger and Franka Diehnelt (MERGE), Willie Robert Middlebrook, Cliff Garten, Gerald Heffernon, Ernesto de la Loza, and Roger Dolin (with Create Now).

Six of these artists are profiled below.

José Antonio Aguirre, Lancaster Animal Shelter

Bi-national artist José Antonio Aguirre earned a MFA from the California Institute of the Arts and a BFA from the School of the Art Institute of Chicago. As a studio artist, he has participated in numerous solo and group exhibitions. As a public artist, he has executed nearly 30 works in California, Illinois, Texas and Mexico City. Throughout his art career, he has been active as an installation artist, visual arts educator and cultural journalist for Spanish publications in Chicago, Los Angeles, Texas and Mexico. In March 2010 Aguirre was awarded the prestigious J. William Fulbright Foreign Scholarship Award to Mexico. Aguirre resides in Pasadena, California.

Carlos Callejo, San Pedro Service Center

Carlos Callejo, who lives and works in San Pedro, has over thirty years experience designing, directing, and coordinating public art projects. He has created dozens of public artworks, including murals he painted for the Smithsonian Institution's Festival of American Folk Life in Washington, D.C., the Silver City Tourist and Visitors' Bureau, and the El Paso County Courthouse's atrium. His work takes inspiration from the great muralists of post-revolutionary Mexico and he frequently creates art that combines historical and mythic imagery. Callejo studied art at California State University and the Otis Art Institute, and he received a Lila Wallace-Reader's Digest Fund Arts International grant to study the history and production of murals in Italy. Callejo spent time with many of the users of the San Pedro Service Center before developing his conceptual design for a mural that reflects the history of the area and the community served by the facility.

Willie Robert Middlebrook,
Florence-Firestone Community Service Center

Willie Robert Middlebrook is an award-winning artist and photographer based in Inglewood. Middlebrook has been working as a professional artist/photographer for over 20 years. He has participated in over 200 solo and group exhibitions throughout the United States and Mexico including exhibitions at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art, Cleveland Museum of Art, Studio Museum of Harlem, and the Watts Towers Arts Center. Middlebrook has received several awards and fellowships for his work in the arts. In 2009 he was awarded the City of Los Angeles Individual Artist Fellowship (COLA) award granted by the Department of Cultural Affairs. In addition to his gallery experience, Middlebrook was commissioned in 2008 by Metro Transportation Authority (MTA) to complete artwork for the Crenshaw Expo Line Station, scheduled for completion in 2010. "Art is about communication," Middlebrook states. "My work is based on collaboration between the subjects I select to photograph and myself ...we have an understanding of each other, an understanding, focused towards a single goal: to speak to and about our people, our communities." Middlebrook also serves as director for the Watts Labor Community Action Council's Cecil Ferguson Gallery.

Claudia Reisenberger and Franka Diehnelt, Rowan Dozier Bus Layover

Merge Conceptual Design, founded in 2003, has completed temporary and permanent public art projects for the Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transit Authority and the cities of Los Angeles, Pasadena, Santa Monica, Berlin (Germany) and Vienna (Austria). The Merge team includes Claudia Reisenberger and Franka Diehnelt who are both architecture graduates of the Academy of Fine Arts, Vienna, and currently teach at the Art Center College of Design in Pasadena.

Kent Twitchell, Bob Hope Patriotic Hall

Kent Twitchell was born in Lansing, Michigan, in 1942. He served in the U.S. Air Force from 1960 to 1965. After moving to Los Angeles in 1966, he attended East Los Angeles City College, and Cal State University, Los Angeles, then received his MFA from the Otis Art Institute. While pursuing his degrees Twitchell began to build his legacy as a large scale muralist painting in a photorealist style. In 1971 and 1972, he completed some of his first public murals in Los Angeles, including the Strother Martin Monument and the Bride and Groom murals. Currently, Twitchell's most familiar downtown mural is Harbor Freeway Overture (1992-93) which depicts several members of the Los Angeles Chamber Orchestra. He views his art as "monuments to American cultural heroes." Twitchell, a veteran, is honored by this commission opportunity to honor veterans. His studio is located just a few blocks from Bob Hope Patriotic Hall.

Cliff Garten, El Cariso Gymnasium

Cliff Garten is a Venice-based artist and landscape architect who has created artwork for numerous public art agencies including the San Francisco Arts Commission and the Metropolitan Transportation Authority in Los Angeles. Garten has also created public art master plans for the City of Calgary (Canada) and the Pinellas County Cultural Affairs Department. Garten received his MFA in Sculpture from the Rhode Island School of Design and Master of Landscape Architecture from the Graduate School of Design at Harvard University. Garten is the recipient of two Individual Artist Fellowships from the National Endowment for the Arts, the Bush Foundation Fellowship for Individual Artists, the Bush Foundation Leadership Fellowship and the Jerome Foundation Travelling Artist Grant.

Civic Art Program Stakeholders and Community Participation

Civic Art Program Stakeholders

During Fiscal Year 2009-10, the Civic Art Program collaborated with thirteen different County departments and worked in communities in each Supervisorial District. Other stakeholders who played a significant role in the Civic Art Program included the CEO Capital Projects staff, the Department of Public Works and the Community Development Commission. External partners included Friends of the Acton/Agua Dulce Library, Friends of the La Crescenta Library, La Crescenta Town Council, La Crescenta Historical Society, Lake Los Angeles Park Association, Rowland Heights School District, and the Los Angeles Conservation Corps. Community members also play a role in the selection, design, development and fabrication of civic art projects.

Community Participation

Five projects undertaken during Fiscal Year 2009-10 that included a high level of community participation are highlighted below.

Belvedere and Obregon Park Pools, First District (completed)

Artist Sonia Romero's aquatic themed color and graphic paint scheme for Belvedere Community Regional Park Pool and Obregon Park Pool brings attention to the importance of fresh water. Painting of the artwork was undertaken by youth from the Los Angeles Conservation Corp (LACC), a program that provides job skills, training, education, and work experience for youth with an emphasis on service projects that benefit the community. Romero led a pre-painting workshop with the participants to explain the intent of the design and discuss execution techniques.

Lennox Library, Second District (completed)

In creating his piece, artist Denis Richardson sought community participation through an art-making workshop. Inspired by the library's location in the flight path of planes arriving and departing from LAX, the artwork's imagery reflects all things in flight. At a workshop, a story-time reading of books about flight stirred the imagination of over 40 members of the Lennox community who were encouraged to dream of things that do, and that do not, fly and to draw them using oil pastels, markers, and pencils. The outcome was a "flock" of colorful artworks depicting fairies, flying pigs and planes which Richardson used to create his artwork design.

Lennox Park, Second District (completed)

Through a partnership between the Second Supervisorial District Office, the Department of Parks & Recreation, and Create Now, a Los Angeles-based nonprofit focused on social change through the arts, more than 100 community members had a hand in producing a 1,200 square foot mural titled, "Lennox Past, Present and Future." Create Now hired local muralist and educator Roger Dolin to conduct drawing workshops and to facilitate the mural making process with members of the community. During the workshops, participants were encouraged to design and paint their vision of Lennox. Virtually every image in the mural originates from one of over 80 drawings produced by Lennox community members. Dolin worked with a core team of more than 30 participants, primarily youth between the ages of six and twenty. Residents were encouraged to help with the painting and to observe and comment on the mural.

Lancaster Animal Shelter, Fifth District (underway)

Artist José Antonio Aguirre has designed artwork for the exterior of several buildings on the campus of the Lancaster Animal Shelter. Through a series of workshops led by the artist, the artwork is being fabricated in Venetian glass mosaic by members of the community. Participants cut and glue pieces of the Venetian glass onto a template provided by the artist. The design of the artwork is inspired by former shelter animals that have had successful adoptions. Each animal portrait is set against the background of a star based on the Hollywood Walk of Fame. The Hollywood Chamber of Commerce granted a license for the use of the Walk of Fame star. The work also promotes the mission and philosophy of the Department of Animal Care and Control. The project is schedule to be complete in November 2010.

Camp Kenyon J. Scudder, Fifth District (completed)

Under the instruction of Theatre Of Hearts/Youth First and Artist-in-Residence Michael Massenburg, the female youth at Juvenile Camp Kenyon Scudder participated in an intensive 14-week program learning the history of art, murals and design.

The curriculum met the California State Standards for the Visual and Performing Arts. The youth then utilized the new skills they learned to design and paint a mural in Camp Scudder's cafeteria.

County Collection Management

During Fiscal Year 2009-10, the Civic Art Program has continued to preserve, document, and provide access to the County's growing collection of artwork. New artwork condition assessment forms have been developed to record the condition of artwork over time. Seventeen condition assessments have been completed during the fiscal year.

Several additional collection processes were formalized during this period, including:

- Procedure for responding to image and artwork reproduction requests, subsequently used to respond to several requests,
- Procedure for transferring works (both recently completed artwork and existing artwork) into the County Collection files, and
- Procedure to organize documents within an artwork's archive and electronic files.

To further the goal of protecting and preserving County artworks, the Arts Commission established the Interagency Artwork Maintenance Task Force. This group brings together various County department staff with collections experts from the Los Angeles County Museum of Natural History and the Los Angeles County Museum of Art. The Task Force held its first regular meeting in April 2010. Representatives from ten County departments and the museums attended to discuss County artwork within their respective jurisdictions and to identify and resolve common issues related to artwork maintenance.

Additional accomplishments in Fiscal Year 2009-10 include a report outlining best practices for collection management, the addition of nineteen civic artworks to the County Collection Inventory along with research and web pages to the Arts Commission Web site, and the initiation of a project to interview artists in order to add audio and video content to project documentation. Nine artists have been interviewed to date.

Technical Assistance and Outreach

According to the 2009 Otis Creative Economy Report, Los Angeles County is home to over 400,000 professional artists. The Civic Art Program places a priority on increasing awareness among this population of the commission opportunities available through the program. In order to cultivate artists in the field of public art and to make the Civic Art Program more accessible to artists in general, an outreach and technical assistance plan was developed during Fiscal Year 2009-10. Since January 2010, the following initiatives identified in the plan have been accomplished:

- Two quarterly open office hours for artists have been held to allow artists to meet informally and one-on-one with Civic Art Program staff and learn more about upcoming civic art opportunities;
- Five technical assistance workshops have been held in conjunction with the release of new, open calls for artists; and
- Two civic art information sessions for artists have been held to provide an overview of the application and selection process and to provide additional information and access to information regarding commission opportunities.

The Civic Art Program is soliciting evaluation survey responses from the participants for each of these initiatives in order to develop more responsive technical assistance to address the needs of artists in Los Angeles County.

In addition, the Public Art Coalition of Southern California (PACSoCal), a regional network of public art programs in which the Civic Art Program plays a leadership role, is planning an in-depth curriculum to provide more comprehensive training in public art. The curriculum is being developed in response to input received from more than 300 artist respondents.
